

The article center

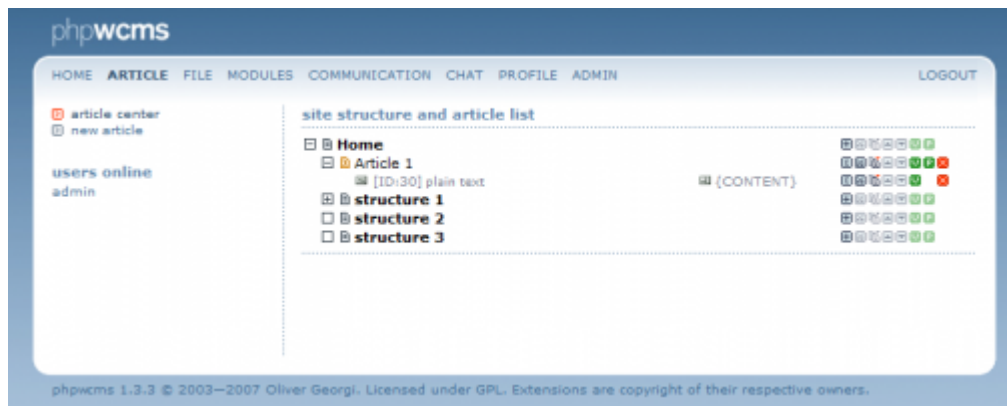

The primary navigation menu in the backend is the top bar, with additional related items down the left. The first item in the top menu is the "ARTICLE" area, you also will notice the two left menus, 'article center' & 'new article'. Article center shows you an overview of the site's structure (in bold font) and its article content (normal font). The order and placement of articles with the article center is controlled using the icons to the right of each article (itemised below). please note: the order & placement of the site's structure may only be altered within the ADMIN section for management purposes.

The article center in the details

Starting from the article center you can't only get an overview of all but you can also create, copy or delete structure levels. Furthermore you can directly access content parts.

If you want to directly access content parts, click that you can find in front of
. Then you can see an overview of all used content parts.

Below the article you can now see a new level. A content part of the article is assigned to every line starting by
. After that the ID of the content part will be shown in brackets [], furthermore the type of the content part and finally with you can see in what area of the template the content will be displayed .

Field descriptions

The following icons may be found to the right of each category, article, content part and file center item. Please note: if the icon appears less defined (greyed out) it is inactive for the current context.

Category: Collapsed view (click to open view)

Category: Open view (click to collapse view)

Category

New article within this category

An article

Edit article

Cut an article: click another category to paste this article elsewhere

Copy an article click another category to paste this article elsewhere

Move article up by one position with the category.

Move article down by one position with the category.

indicates that the article is both "visible" and "public" (publicly available); the visibility of articles to visitors of the website can be toggled by clicking these. Note: Both indicators must remain green in order for the article to be visible to visitors of the Website.

or indicates that the article is invisible to visitors of the Website. Click on the red in each case, in order to switch the article to visible and public.

contentpart inside an article

block where the article will be published

URL: <http://www.phpwcms-docu.de/index.php?article>