

Content Part "Code"

code: Here you can enter regular text. The difference between this contentpart, and the “plain text” content-part is only in how the text is formatted for viewers of the website. Text entered here will be presented using a uniform-width font, which is handy for displaying sections of code, among other things.

Below you will find 2 examples so you can see the difference between these 2 content parts.

example: plain text
